

Dear Dr. Problemo,

I need your help! My name is Norice, I am 17 years old. I'm soooo in love with a girl. Her family and mine are friends so I see her often. When we see each others, she's so kind , acting with me like she was interested and she often tell me that I'm her best friend, but there is one problem : She's one of the popular girl of the school and me.. we can say it..I'm a reject. So, at school, she's acting like we didn't know each others. Example : The other day, I went to see her at lunch time to tell her that we have a supper the next Saturday, but when I said that, her friends laughed of me and she was shy. I was so sad. After school, she came at my locker and said : I'm sorry for earlier, you know I don't want that they others see me with you.. We are different.. you can't do this. You know I like you and you are my best friend but.. Agr.. See you Saturday..! I try to be perfect like her friends but it's still not enough..What should I do? I don't want to loose her...Help me!

Norice.

