

Doctor Problems answers:

First, people who saw you during the fight aren't totally bad; sometimes people get scared of living the same things that you lived. So, they take the side of your enemies during crucial moments like fight. But you must try to give yourself confidence and try to ignore the ones who hate you. Try to not answer, because when people don't care about it, they get tired of insulting you if there are no results. You also should talk to a teacher that you like or to someone like a counselor who will listen to you without saying that you're not a real man... He will help you and will try to find solutions to stop physical violence that you receive. Smiles and jovial appearance is the key of the success. Let people who already hurt you have another chance because sometimes people judge you by your physical appearance before see the person you truly are. Subscribe on school activities that you like and you will meet people who like the same things like you.

Don't stay scared and search for help. Don't start judging people because you will do the same they did to you
