

I Have a Problem

by Marie-Eve and Martin

Dear Miss pregnant,

I read your letter and I have some good advice for you because one of my friends was in the same situation two years ago. First, I think you should talk to somebody that you trust a lot and who will support you in all your steps. You really have to tell the truth to your boyfriend because lying is not a good solution and if your boyfriend truly loves you, he will understand that it was a mistake which you regret. After that, you have to decide if you will keep the baby, have an abortion or give the baby for adoption. This is a big decision, so you have to take your time and reflect about all the positive and negative points of each possibility.

Good luck in your choice and don't forget, the situation will be worse if you lie.

Dr. Pepper

By Maude P. and Chloé D.-D.