

Frustration

My name is Valérie Whitehalland...Grrr! I can't stand her anymore. I love my father, but for a while we had a lot of problems. My father has a new girlfriend and I really don't like her. I'm really mad at her because she is the cause of all the problems we have, my father and me.

It's not like I don't want my father to have a new girlfriend. It's just that she is taking the whole place at home. Last week, my father and me were supposed to go to the movie together. But she came and she told him something so he cancelled. It's the third time that he cancelled our plan to go to the movie. I tried so many times to talk to him about that, but it didn't work. He wasn't even listening. The only thing he said it's that he was in love and I will have to get used to it. But I don't want to, I want her to leave or at least I want to not have problems with my father anymore.

Can somebody help me? I really need good advice. I don't know what to do!
