

My dad is not the same

HELP! I'm a nice son; I always do what my parents ask to me. My father is generally nice with me. When I was young, he always bought me candies. But, for a few days, he has been more violent with me. He throws things at me like garbage, telephone, chair and every things he can throw when he is angry. I don't want to discuss about that with my brother because I know that he won't believe me. My dad is not as violent with my brother. If I tell my story to my mom, she will ignore me because she loves her husband. Finally, I'm afraid to discuss about that with my dad because he will hurt me again!

So, I tried to stop talking to him but he blamed me to be worried all the time and he was just more frustrated. After, I tried to avoid him but it's difficult because we live in the same house. Yesterday, I even tried to throw something at him but it was really not a good idea! He threw me something bigger.

I can't endure that anymore. Can you help me please? I'm hopeless...

A boy who is tired of suffering...

