

NO WAY! I can not handle this anymore

Hi my name is Robert and I am 15 years old. I know that I am a good boy with good values, but I got a VERY big problem. Appearance is not that important, but when you have a lot of acne like me, it is hard not to take care about it.

Every morning it is so hard to enter the school because I know that everybody will insult me .In those moments I just want to disappear.

Some of my friends have girlfriends, but in my case, no one is interested by me. They like me as a friend, but they_are disgusted by my acne. I want to go talk with new people, but I am too shy to meet them. With all those comments it is hard to think that I can be beauty as everybody.

I tried to cover my acne with make-up but the result was worst. My mother advised me to buy some cream to reduce my acne but it was not better than the make-up.

My brother got the same problem as me, but his acne disappeared at the age of 17 years old. Am I going to have a nice skin at 17? I hope so!

So please! Can you help me? I really need you. Do not let my with my strawberry face.
